

There will be a meeting at the usual Thursday night next.

THE EVIL-WHAT IS TO BE DONE?-Since the disbandment of the organization known as the "States Hose," which organization whether descreedly or undeservedly, was credited with all, or nearly all, the outrages which had, up to that period, been committed in our midst, the people of Washington have been, nightly, subjected to attacks in various quarters of the city-they have been knocked down, beaten and robbed-houses have been entered, public and private-the inmates maltreated and beaten, the furniture broken up. money stolen, and every conceivable indignity inflicted upon persons and property. These outrages are of nightly occurrence. The city appears to be districted among a class of individuals whose business it is to outrage humanity, set at defiance law, order, decency, propriety, disregard every and all ties that link man to man, and exhibit only the brute passions, which, when not under the restraint of reason, or law, make man a tiger in fero city, loving the smell of blood, eager to shed it, and only satisfied when he is driving his knife into the heart of his victim, or coolly taking deliberate aim with the deadly rifle at the unprotected and defenceless.

There is an organization in the city of Wash ington, which though nameless is not headless Organizations for good or evil, always have a head, and this organization has a leader or leaders, who are none the less efficient, on account of the secrecy which veils them from public ken, while their orders are promptly executed by the desperadees in their pay. It is believed by many citizens, and we confess that circumstances warrant the belief, that the membership of this organization numbers some six hundred persons, many of whom are citizens of Washington, and rank among the respectable and order-loving portion of the community-upper-tendom has its representatives among them, and it is shrewdly suspected, nay, it is asserted, that its headship is to be found among the city fathers, and one step higher.

However this may be, certain it is that th citizens of Washington are given up to the tender mercies of a lawless crew, who are allowed, unmolested, to work their will among them; who are permitted to single out their victims and pursue them to the bitter end, without redress, or even the shadow of an attempt to arrest and bring them to justice. Justice! there's no such thing in Washington. Murder is unrebuked .- or, if the mockery of a trial is allowed, the blood stained murderer is honorably acquitted, and let loose upon society to commit more honorable murders!

In the midst of these desperate circum stances, an act is passed by the Councils, making it a penal offence for citizens to carry "dangerous weapons," thereby depriving them of their only defence against assassination and brutal violence; thus making them an easy prey to the vindictive cruelty of their oppressorsfor, it cannot be supposed, nor was it expected, this, or any other act of restraint.

What, then, is to be done? Must we take lessons from the history of feudal times, and meet force by force. Must we band ourselves together for the purpose of protection, and, with arms in our hands, openly meet and repel oppression? There seems to be no other mode of putting an end to the evil which has so boldly reared its hy lead among us.

Self defence is the taw of nature, and the man who would unuely submit to lawless violence, will meet with little sympathy.

On Sunday Night, a party of rowdies, five in number, went to the eating house of Miss Greenfield, on K st., opposite West market, and demanded supper. She is quite an old lady, carning an honest living by cooking for the market people, and lives quite alone, saving the presence of an invalid brother, who is unable to help himself-being entirely dependent upon his sister for support. She was unable to comply with the demand, having no victuals cooked. She told them it was Sunday, and not dreaming of a call for estables on that night, she had no cooked victuals, in the house. They, with oaths and abusive language, ir sisted upon having supper cooked for them, and began to kick up a muss and noise. The old lady, frightened, at last set about cooking something for them; and whilst so engaged, they stole her spectacles and a boy's cap, and threatened to burn her broom, With much difficulty, after enduring abuse too foul to name, she got rid of them, -pushing them out of the door. They were accompanied by two boys, who, she supposes, guided them to her house. She knows both these boys, and has obtained a warrant for them, which will be served in due time. Officer Dewdney will, we doubt not, do his duty effectually.

On Sunday, at and near the Park Tavern, (there being three drinking house in close proximity,) there was every indication of a serious disturbance of the peace. Some fifty or sixty individuals assembled at Rupple's Lager Beer House, where the disturbance was commenced, several persons being knocked down. Thence they adjourned to the Park Tavern, which immediately closed up, ere they could obtain

That there was no serious disturbance was owing to the presence of officers Hammond. King and Plowman.

We are informed by eye witnesses of the scene that the Intelligencer's account of the disturbance of a funeral procession, when in the neighborhood of Massachusetts avenue and Eleventh street, on Sonday last, is grossly incorrect. They say there was no firing of pistols, and that one party was as much to blame as the other.

A colored woman died in New Orleans, a few days since, at the advanced age of one hun-

PISTOL PRACTICE.—On Monday a young man was practising at a target with his pistol, somewhere in the Fifth Ward, and had fired away all his balls, but was amusing him-self by firing powder, when he was accosted by one of a party of three, who came up to him and said-

"Let me have a shot with that thing!" The pistol was handed to him. Have you any powder?" The flask was passed over, and the charge ammed home. "Now give me a bullet."

"I have none-I fired them all away." "Never mind-I guess I have something that will answer."

Putting his hand into his pecket and pulling out a slug, he proceeded to place it upon the powder; then putting a cap upon the nipple, he took deliberate aim, and the pistol went off in his pocket.

"Stop! stop! that is my pistol-you must not take it away."

"You be ---. Do you see that?" pointing to a long knife, "half concealed, half disclosed" by his pocket.

The young man did perceive it, and concluded that it would be prudent to let the pistol go, and to go himself, and he did go.

SUNDAY PASTIME. - On Sunday morning last, during church time, two hack loads of "down town" boys, there being six in each hack, drove up to the First Ward, where they met party of the Western Hose boys, whom they gave three cheers. They then drove to Mayor Magruder's house, and gave him three cheers, after which they drove to the Western Hose house, where they allighted.

Beautiful conduct, this, for the Sabbath, in the metropolis of the nation! It is an excellent commentary on the times!

QUERE BY A CITIZEN OF THE FIRST WARD. Who pays for the transportation of the guns from the State of Virginia to Maryland? Does it come out of the pockets of thx-payers? Or, does Uncle Sam foot the bill? We pause for a reply.

COMMUNICATED. MR. EDITOR: The statement below we transcribe from various sources and can vouch for its authenticity, and we are the more impelled to do this because the other city papers give no insight to the transaction.

On Friday evening-last, between nine and ten o'clock, though some say later, a party of four nen were sitting quietly, in the restaurant of D. B. Jenkins, on Seventh street, between Maryland avenue and South B street, waiting to be served with oysters. This party was composed of Mess. Jos. Ward, a man possessed but with one arm, and that almost unserviceable; D. B. Johnson, John Pierce and - Randall.

About this time a party of desperadoes, known s "States Hose men," or "Regulators," ranging in number from fifteen to twenty-five, were seen coming up Maryland avenue, and, turning Cassell's corner, proceeded diagonally across Seventh street over to the restaurant. They then ranged themselves around the door and in front of the house, and some six of them, headed by Ben McGraw, huckster from Georgetown, entered and called for whiskey, wanting (as they said) "some good democratic whiskey," thus endeavoring to carry out (as we suppose) that cardinal democratic doctrine- "Whiskey and democracy, now and forever, one and inseparable." They were told by Jenkins, that he did not sell whiskey, and consequently he could not furnish

A portion of them then retired, apparently to hold a consultation, and, in a few minutes, re-appeared and became more clamorous for "democratic whiskey, and thought it " a h-ll of a house hat could not furnish it." Thinking to appease them, Jenkins procured pottle in the next room which he kept for "pri-

They then invited the four persons up to take a drink of "democratic whiskey," and wanted every one, as he imbibed, to express his political

All partook and declared themselves "good lemocrata" except Ward, he remaining seated at the table in the back room.

Finding this pretext would give them no occasion to pitch in, the leader, McGraw, took D. B. Johnson by the coat collar and led him to the door, and remarked to the crowd outside : "Boys, this man is a good democrat and has been a friend to my father, so don't hurt him; but, as for the rest, you can just pitch in," or words to this

Ward was still sitting at the table with one of these bullies on each side; one pulling out a pistol and the other a dirk, as also did some of the others. A lunge was made at Ward who dodged the blow, and nearly came in contact with another, but by expert action escaped and made for the front door. The parties outside endeavored to intercept him but failed to do so; but, as he fled, threw bricks at him, one of which struck him upon the hip. Randall immediately followed, but scaped without injury, although the parties on the outside grasped him by the coat as he emer-

The main object, however, and centre of attack was upon John Pierce who was struck in the mouth in the beginning of the affray, which was followed by a blow across the head with a large holster pistol which felled him towards the floor. As he was falling one of the parties on the other side of the table fired a pistol under the table with the purpose of killing him and not endangering his friends, but it went off a little too soon, and the ball went through the table.

While he was in this position the entertainment was diversified by the firing of another pistol, cutting him with dirks about the shoulders and face, breaking spittoons over his head, and one of the party, more determined than the rest, held pistol to his head, but the cap refused its duty. The outcries of Jenkius's wife probably caused the party to relax their hold upon him, when he also fied by way of the door, the parties pursuing and discharged three pistols after him on the outside. As the last one was fired he stumbled or fell, and the raccals, supposing they had accomplished their fell purpose, took to their heels. While the affray was at its commencement the valiant keeper fled through a side room, where he had two double-barrel guns loaded with buck shot expressly for such emergencies, leaving his wife and children in the house; and for aught we know to the contrary, he may yet be performing a perpendicular elongated pedestrian movement, No arrests have been made, although McGraw was seen in Centre Market on Saturday morning, but afterwards left the city by way of the Long bridge.

One of our new special police, on Saturday, was extolling the performances and seemed very highly delighted. You ought to know better Dicky.

Another of the night watch on Monday, still better pleased, and he be d-m-d if "we didn't give them enough of it before we were done." Look sharp, George. It is said this party was in quest of T. E. Loyd, Esq., councilman, (it ought to be Councilmen,) to revenge remarks made by him in his place in the Council. And so bold has this party become, that a squad was detached to Ryland Chapel, on Sunday night, with the expectation of finding him there, where he usually attends, but he had left the city or Saturday.

Another party of them, about fifty, on Sunday light, went to the house of a young man on 6th street, Island, named Holbrook, but he was not at home. Foiled of their prey in one quarter, their beastly nature was vented upon a poor unsuspect ing hackman, by striking him in the head with a brick and knocking him senseless upon his box. On Saturday, some of them went to the house of Charles Hurdle in the Northern Liberties, but not finding him at home, left word with the inmates for him to prepare his grave and furnish his coffin. We have no heart to pursue the subject further, but we cannot help thinking that these fellows will butt a brick before long rather harder than their calculation would induce them to be-

And yet in the face of all this lawlessness, the Corporation would endeavor to force good citizens to disarm themselves, and thus invite aggression and death. Our advice to our friends is, and we give it with a previous and philosophical considera tion, to disregard the law for the prevention of carrying deadly weapons, as, for several reasons we could give (t'would be like casting pearls before swine if we would attempt it for the benefit of the aforesaid Corporosity) it is void and cannot be enforced, as we expect to give a practical demonstration before many days.

On Monday night, some of this dastardly gang, pursued and shot at two strangers passing through the city, near Four-and-a-half street bridge.

ACCIDENT .- A little boy, son of Mr. A Glasgow, between two and three years of age. while running about in the rear of his father's residence, I street, between Fourth and Fifth. on last Friday afternoon, was violently kicked by a horse belonging to Mr. Prather, and his arm broken thereby. Without any assistance he ran to his father's house, where a physician was called in and the limb was set.

EXTENSIVE. FORGERIES IN MISSOURI.—The Barnville (Mo.) Observer alleges that extensive forgeries have lately been perpetrated in tha place by a person by the name of Norris. The Observer says: "Those who loaned Norris money upon notes, with forged endorsers, are, se far as we have heard, citizens of this country. The forgeries date from nearly four years back until recently. The sufferers comprise the estate of widows and orphans, as well as many of our most wealthy and cautious capitalists the aggregate, losses of which are estimated from $40,000 to $50,000. His debts in the East, for the purchase of goods, it is supposed will be between $20,000 and $30,000. The value of his assets is estimated from $20,000

VERY PROPER MOVEMENT.—There is a movement by the banks in New York, it is said towards resuming specie payments on the 1st of January. The sooner this step is taken the better it will be for the business of the country, now prostrated by want of confidence.

The people in one of the upper districts o Wisconsin were represented in the last Legis-lature by a Mr. Gunn; but he not making noise enough, they have this year nominated

COTTON AND MONEY MATTERS AT NEW OR-LEANS .- New Orleans, November 6 .- The Cotton market has advanced three-fourths of a cent, with an active demand, in part on speculation. Middling is now held firmly at 10 1 4 cents, an improvement of 1 1-4 cent from the lowest point of the depression.

The money market is decidedly easier, and confidence is being gradually restored. Serling bills are quoted at from 5 per cent, dis-

RESUMPTION OF THE CITIZEN'S BANK-BETTER PROSPECTS. - New Orleans, November 5. - Th Citizens' Bank resumed to-day, and there has been considerable arrivals of specie.

The heavy engagements of yesterday were generally met by our mercantile community, and business is brighter.

RIOT ON A RAILROAD TRAIN. -From the Chi cago Journal we clip the following:

There was a riot on board of a passeng rain on the Chicago, Iowa and Nebraska railroad, on Monday last. When the train was leaving Wapsie station for the East, between twenty and thirty Irish laborers, who had been discharged, boarded the cars, and swore they would ride to Clinton free of charge. Conductor Smith remonstrated and the Irish persisted. At length he attempted to force them from the cars, and the paddies 'pitched The conductor and three assistants succeeded, after many bruises and hard knocks, in ejecting a portion of the rioters, and then gave the signal to the engineer to proceed The row continued on the train for nearly mile, when the train again stopped, and the fight became severe and general. Pistols, knives and clubs were drawn and used indiscriminately, and one man was severely stabbed in several places. At length twelve of the rioters were secured and lodged in jail.'
